Considering a career change?
Consider teaching.

If you’re due to complete your undergraduate degree or you’re seeking a career change and already have a degree, consider teaching.

Graduate Diploma in Teaching

A Graduate Diploma in Teaching from the University of Waikato is a qualification that sets you up to be a skilled and reflective teacher. Our graduates are in high demand both in New Zealand and around the world.

With separate programmes for Early Childhood, Primary and Secondary School the GradDipT combines Professional Education papers with placements in schools or ECE centres.

Length of study – 1 year full time

We have flexible study options that can fit in your lifestyle with a mixture of study on campus in either Hamilton or Tauranga or online via our Mixed Media Presentation programme.

- ECE - online via our MMP programme
- Primary - Hamilton or via our MMP programme
- Secondary - Hamilton/Tauranga/MMP

Start in Early January for Early Childhood and Primary and February for Secondary School

Applications open in 1 July – and all applicants are subject to an interview and selection process

Prerequisites – Primary & ECE - to be eligible for this programme you must hold a Bachelor’s Degree for Primary and ECE Secondary - to be eligible for this programme you hold a Bachelors degree or Graduate Diploma (120 points) which supports the teaching of an NZ curriculum subject (80 points at 300 level)
